

GPS ALUMINI - Lottie Somers - RAF Medic

As an RAF Medic, I provide essential medical support to personnel, respond to medical emergencies and provide airfield crash cover at stations throughout the UK, on military operations and exercises. I also provide a full range of pre-hospital emergency care in military environments.

During my time at George Pindar School I found the science and maths lessons stimulating and this encouraged me to pursue a career within the medical field. I was always interested in biology and chemistry throughout my school years and I enjoyed expanding my knowledge, most notably in the subjects that interested me. The fundamentals that I learnt during my time at George Pindar School have greatly enhanced my knowledge and can be applied to my role as an RAF medic on a day to day basis.
